Full Version.New England Patriots - Dallas Cowboys: Game Preview Tom Brady may get his first shutout in football today when the New England Patriots host the Dallas Cowboys. What's at stake: The Patriots have yet to beat the Cowboys at Gillette Stadium, with seven of the last 10 meetings ending in Dallas victories. The Patriots have a tight grip on the AFC East lead and will be playing spoiler to a 2-2 start in the division by the Buffalo Bills. The Cowboys, who are battling to stay in the NFC East race, lost their season opener to the New York Giants 30-27 at home. Weather: Warm and clear. Quotes: Patriots wide receiver Deion Branch said he doesn't expect to face many changes to the Cowboys defense from their Week 1 loss to the Giants. "I don't really think you see a lot of personnel changes from week to week," Branch said. "I think they line up and do what they need to do to put a good defense on the field." Cowboys quarterback Tony Romo said he has been impressed with the way New England's offense has moved the ball through the air. "It's impressive. When you're playing a team that's trying to move the ball on the ground, that's a major issue," Romo said. "They've done a nice job of limiting their mistakes and creating turnovers and making plays down the field. They have a good quarterback, a good running back and good receivers." Patriots tight end Daniel Graham said it has been tough to beat the Patriots so far in the season, regardless of what the score may be. "As we all know, they're the defending champions, so that's tough to beat. They're a great organization and they run their organization the way we run ours," Graham said. "So we've got a lot of respect for them." Cowboys wide receiver Terrell Owens says the defense has been taking the Cowboys to a whole new level this season. "There's been a turn around in the defense," Owens said. "They're playing smart, they're playing in the right spots. They've got plenty of guys that have
